Instructors for the Come&Try Music Program

Please go to www.algomatrad.ca for more information about the instructors.

Lea Kirstein is the current Artistic Director of World on a String in Toronto, a fiddle community presenting concerts, jams, workshops, and group classes for fiddlers of all ages, focusing on traditional folk tunes from around the world.

Julie Schryer is an Artistic Co-Director and founder of AlgomaTrad and is a well-known instructor on piano and fiddle.

Pat O'Gorman is an Artistic Co-Director and founder of AlgomaTrad and has lead classes and workshops in bagpipes, tin whistle, and Irish flute for students of all ages.

Tori Grasley is a singer and multi-instrumentalist who grew up in the Central Algoma region, playing music with family. Tori has been involved with AlgomaTrad for the past two years, teaching guitar, choir and kids program classes during the family camp, and assisting with facilitation of other programming. Tori is currently pursuing a degree in Community Development with a minor in Music at Algoma University to continue developing community organizing and arts skills.
